BRMS/Disaster Recovery

Date: Tuesday, April 18th
Time: 5:30 (Deli snack) - 6:00 (Meeting)
Location: IBM-Southfield
18000 West Nine Mile Road
Southfield, MI 48075 (map)

Speaker: Jim Oberholtzer

Overview:

IBM Business Media Recovery Services assists with defining and processing backups, recoveries, and media tracking. The standard BRMS product provides three basic functions...

Backup establishes a disciplined approach for managing the recording of all types of objects, including the operating system itself.

Recovery provides for orderly retrieval. A series of step-by-step reports take you through the recovery of your system.

Media Management tracks media inventory through all cycles from creation to expiration, until it is removed from the inventory.

About the Presenter:

Jim Oberholtzer started his career in 1980 working in positions of increasing responsibility including Vice President - Technology, at the United States Bowling Congress (USBC). Today, Jim is the Chief Technical Architect for Agile Technology Architects, LLC a consulting firm that assists companies in the implementation and maintenance of an Agile/SCRUM development environment. Additionally Agile provides implementation design and support for an Agile Infrastructure in order to support the applications Agile companies need to grow and thrive.

Recognized by IBM as a Subject Matter Expert in Power Systems, server design, administration, and operations, Jim is a member of the panel of SMEs that create many of the IBM i certification tests. Jim also holds a Masters, Software Engineering from Carroll University in Waukesha Wisconsin.

From the President:

Dear Members:

We're excited to have Jim Oberholtzer presenting BRMS/Disaster Recovery topic in April. Our meeting will be held onsite at IBM in Southfield Michigan or join in remotely by web ex. Back ups and Disaster Recovery is a very important topic for every environment. Join us in April and you're sure to go away with useful information that can be applied within your environment.
